Data Scientists Wanted

2OS is a leading boutique consulting firm positioned at the nexus of deep credit expertise and advanced modeling analytics. We create value for our financial services clients by showing them how machine learning algorithms can harness the power in their data.

Improvements in processing and an explosion of available data have made advanced modeling techniques more accessible than ever – and client demand has followed. To meet that demand, 2OS is recruiting at top graduate programs for exceptional data scientists to join our world class team of credit and advanced modeling experts.

The ideal candidate is someone who wants to apply their exceptional technical skills to a variety of impactful business problems across dozens of clients. Both full time and summer internship positions are available.
